Jones commander. HONORED THE MONUMENT.

Indiana Veterana March Around the Shaft-Heads Uncovered to Morton. In a way befitting, with cheers and waving banners, Indiana veterans celebrated on Monument Place yesterday afternoon the restoration of their long prodigal monument to its intended meaning. The first detachment of the Indiana army of bluecoats, which brought up the rear of the great parade, with Commander Johnston and his staff at their head, arrived at Monument Place shortly after 3 o'clock. The statue of Governor Morton, and then the great monument, by lifting their caps. The hosts in the ranks followed their example with waving hats and flags and many rounds of cheers. Commander Johnston and staff took their stand at the north entrance of Monument Place, while the veterans in thousands marched past them, around the monument, and finally up and about the base of the monument, where ranks were broken. A large crowd gathered at the Morton monument, where, on motion of Gen. Lew Wallace, three rousing cheers were given the great war Governor. Attracted by this demonstration, thousands gathered to the monument from adjacent streets, and Monument Place became quickly crowded with people and filled with the discordant music of rival and drum corps, while Mary Logan Cadets, of Columbus, cleared a place for their evolutions at the base of the monument by marching against and driving back the crowds. A half hour later another large delegation from the De- of which Rev. Myron W. Reed spoke in his abreast around the great 1861-1865 shaft, and out of Monument Place at the northern entrance, saluting the monument as their comrades who had first arrived had done. The largest and last delegation arrived at the monument about 4:80, and included several thousand members of Indiana Department, who for a half hour, entering at the west entrance, marched around the Circle to the north entrance. Miss Indiana must have been filled with some pardonable pride as she gazed down from her giddy beight upon the marching thousands of Indiana heroes who thus came to signify their unqualified approval of the revised work of the monument commission.

Harrison Post's Demonstration. As T. J. Harrison Post, No. 30, of Kokomo, Ind., were turning the corner of Meridian and Seventh streets, they spied Mrs. T. J. Harrison and her little daughter, Lulu, who is known to the "vets" of the post as the daughter of the regiment. The presence of the wife and daughter of the post's namesake was the signal for a round of cheers, which was given with a hearty good will.

James Whitcomb Riley's Father, Capt. Reuben S. Riley, of Greenfield, and father of James Whitcomb Riley, marched the whole route of the procession with Dunbar Post, of which he is a member. Captain Riley is over 70 years of age.

AT THE CAMPS. Veterans at Wallace Were Reminded of Old Days-Funny Incidents.

Camp Wallace presented an animated appearance yesterday morning while the veterans were making preparations to take part in the big parade. Bands were playing on all sides, clothing was being brushed up so as to make as good an appearance as possible, and the martial bands were making the welkin ring with their stirring airs. There was hustle and bustle everywhere, and one old veteran likened it to times during the war when an army was preparing to break camp in order to take a new position. The veterans all say that the canvas beds that were vided in the barracks were very comfortable, and that | barring the fact that there was considerable noise all night, caused by old friends who happened to meet, and got interested in telling stories of their experience during the time they were in service. In one or two instances the canvas of the beds was not strong enough to support the weight of the occupant, and was torn, dropping the veteran down on the occupant of the bunk underneath. There were several such occurrences during the night, but all was taken in good humor. In the barracks where the wire cots were placed some of the men put straw on the wire, and in that case the man under him got the benefit of the fine straw that stited through the meshes of the woven wire, and of course he was ready to make a vigorous kick. The health of the camp is excellent, the surgeons in attendance having been called on to prescribe for only a few cases of slight irregularities caused by the change of water and diet. At the hospital tent commander and his aids sainted first the those in charge considered the health of the camp something remarkable under the circumstances. Up to the present time there has been ample accommodation for all who presented themselves for free quarters with proper-assignment cards, and in addition many have been taken care of who had not been assigned quarters in advance. At Camp McGinnis there was the same bustle and confusion in consequence of the preparations of the veterans to move into the line, but of course it was not so marked as at Wallace, for the reason that there are only about one fourth as many men tented there. The health of this camp is reported as excellent and but few calls for medical attention have been made.

Parade Notes. If the Shelby county battalion did get into line shead of its place, it must be said that it was one of the finest bodies of men in the Indiana column. The great pak tree on Delaware street,

William "Fat" Bane, the seven-foot grant of Company A. Twenty-second (Ringgold) Pennsylvania Cavalry, who is doing the town this week, was one of the principal attractions for an hour or so yesterday afternoon at the corner of Pennsylvania and Seventh streets. While the Kentucky delegation were awaiting orders at the corner of Central avenue and Seventh street yesterday about one o'clock, J. Munks, of Willich Post, 132 of Louisville, Ky., was overcome by the heat and removed in an ambulance in charge of Dr. Heath to school house No. 2. The Knightstown Band is doing considerable playing while in the city. Last evening they were at the reception at Tomlinson Hall and gave an extra number on the programme, To-day they will Park Church, the Y. M. C. A., Tomlinson Hall, and other places.

At the head of the Henry County Battalion yesterday was Gen. William Grose, of New Castle. He was probably the oldest man in the procession, being born in December, 1812. He served throughout the war with conspicuous ability, being commissioned brigadier general in 1864. In civil life he has done a work which gives him a place among the most eminent of indiaplans. Souvenire of the luncheon, complimentary from the ladies' citizens' commit-R. C., will be distributed to-day. They are embedished with a picture of "Indians," and the name and date in blue and gold on the tirst leaf. Those for the W. R. C. have a cut of Roberts Park Church on the last leaf, and for Ladies of the G. A. R. have a cut of Y. M. C. A. Hall, the meeting places for the conventions.

While a gentleman was driving in front of the State Building, yesterday, his horse became frightened and commenced to kick and jump, and finally started to run away, and one of the ladies in the carriage jumped out and was dragged a short distance. One of Commander-in-chief Weissert aid-de-camps, by the name of Larson, from Racine, Wis., stopped the horse at considerable risk to himself. He was slightly hurt in doing so. A detachment of the parade, the Mith Michigan Artillery, with Chaplain Henry S. White at their head, passing up Tennessee street, yesterday morning, on its way to the marching column, halted in front of the residence of Governor Porter. Some of its members asked for water, and the Governor himself banded it to them. The men did not know him until his daughter asked them if they knew that it was Gov. Porter to whom they were talking. Their enthusiasm then knew no bounds, and both eides will probably remember the occasion with pleasantness.
